Novel protest against footpath encroachments

Mini Market in front of MCC footpath !

Mysuru, Nov. 5 (RKB&US)- People passing by Sayyaji Rao Road were taken by surprise to see a mini market spring up on the footpath at the entrance gate of Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) Main Office this morning.

It was actually a novel protest organised by Pedestrians Welfare Committee and Nav Bharath Nirman Seva Trust led by Corporator K.V. Sridhar to voice their protest against rampant encroachment of footpaths across city with MCC turning a blind eye to the grave problem.

The mini market comprised vendors selling pani puri, churumuri, tender coconuts, clothes, flowers, vegetables, fruits, bonda-bajji along with a regular caravan-type canteen.

The height of the protest was a power transformer that was placed on the footpath to refer to Chamundeshwari Electricity Supply Corporation (CESC) which has installed a few such transformers on footpaths threatening the safety of pedestrians.

The mini market was indeed a real one with passers-by buying the items and vendors calling out the prices of the products to attract customers.

Placards were in place indicating that footpath is for pedestrians, not for vendors and blaming MCC for literally converting footpaths as garbage zones.

- 54 Theme Parks to come up in 150-acre area at the site

Mysuru, Nov.5 (MTY&DM)- Even as the State Government is exploring all avenues to boost tourism in Karnataka to the fullest possible, the Forest Department in association with the Tourism Department has evolved a Master Plan for tourism promotion, with focus on wildlife conservation awareness, at Bharachukki Falls on the Chamarajanagar District side of Mandya-Chamarajanagar border. Viveka Memorial: CM's direction to DC about NTM School

Senior citizens submit memorandum to DC

Mysuru, Nov. 5- Some senior citizens of Mysuru met the Deputy Commissioner Abhiram G. Sankar this morning at his Office and presented a memorandum with regard to the handing over of the physical possession of the NTM School on N.S. Road in city to Sri Ramakrishna Ashram, Mysuru, for the construction of Viveka Memorial.

It may be recalled that though the official possession was given to Sri Ramakrishna Ashram some years back, the physical possession was not given following objections and protests by NTM School Ulisi Horata Samithi. However, a few weeks back when the DDPI went to the school premises to handover physical possession, once again the Samithi took objection and prevented the officials from handing over the possession.

The Horata Samithi, in the meanwhile, met Chief Minister B.S. Yediyurappa on Oct. 13 requesting him to protect the NTM School and its land. The CM unilaterally issued a directive, on the basis of a letter given to him by the Samithi members, to the Mysuru DC on the same day, stating that the NTM School and its land must be saved and the proposed Viveka Memorial may be constructed by Sri Ramakrishna Ashram on the remaining space available in the premises.

Following this unexpected directive from the CM, even as the matter is pending in the High Court, many well-wishers of the Ashram and the senior citizens made a representation to the DC requesting him to apprise the CM the true facts of the case involving the transfer of physical possession of NTM School land to Ramakrishna Ashram as per the State Government's order passed about seven years back.

Land of Languages

Adults who speak different tongues and the growing children from the stage of a toddler to the school-going age, say three years, who learn to speak in one language or the other fall into different slots. The number of tongues in which the land's people in different regions interact both verbally and communicate in writing with script that they have used for years makes a fascinating study. The languages which either don't have their specific script or use the script of different languages are an infinitesimal fraction of the total number of languages that we get to hear in the open space. Much is being made of mother-tongue and medium of instruction in schools in circles of people in public life only to whip up emotions in society. The sense of happiness that one gets when the other person, including strangers, responds in one's own language cannot be expressed adequately in words. The monumental achievement of unifying hundreds of kingdoms, large-small-tiny by the nation's first Home Minister seems to have been undone by dividing the nation's geography into narrow regions on the basis of the languages spoken by the respective area's population. Division is the end result of that act.

Mysuru, then Mysore, hosted people who spoke different languages without any prejudice or disfavour of tongues of various sections of society, obviously without any public debates on languages of the kind that we observe nowadays. Writers did gift literary works in their respective languages, including Kannada, that continue to be rated high even after several decades. That cannot be said about later generations of the region.

The more we ponder about the land's languages, more fascinating features of every language are bound to come to our notice. First and foremost feature is the commonality of words among the various languages that should make us wonder about the mutual inputs among the languages enriching every language. Sayings, proverbs, idioms and even slangs may be in different languages, but we can learn from the knowledgeable persons that the message in each of them bear similarity for the most part. Further, people pursuing different professions and those engaged in different works to earn a livelihood speak in styles that can easily reveal their professional identity. Doctors, engineers, lawyers, administrators, teachers and many other professionals freely draw from their stock of vocabulary while they interact with others. In that backdrop, the now-in-vogue three-language system in the country (English-Hindi-and a Regional language) seems to be a measure which can be likened to fire-fighting operation.

India's languages, each with a long history, have survived themselves by a process of evolution, without any administrative intrusion unlike in our times. Let every language benefit from the patronage bestowed upon by the people themselves. Consensus, not conflict, is the best outlook upon the land's languages for civil society.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Now, people order all and sundry things online as it saves them the hassle of negotiating traffic, finding parking space, looking for what they need and returning home tired and dispirited. There is endless choice and prices are reasonable. There is a likelihood of you being sent the wrong size or colour. What of it? Send it back undamaged and an exchange can be effected. Simple! Want vegetables? Order online. What if you get wilted greens or not-so-fresh vegetables? Think of the convenience. They come to your doorstep. That your afternoon nap may be disturbed is a small price to pay for the convenience. Don't feel like cooking? No problem. Call Swiggy or Zomato and order! That goes for bills too. Sometimes these don't work but that is by the way. — Padma Ganapati in The New Indian Express

Burger in Iceland turns 10 and it still looks edible

Reykjavík: Iceland is one of the few countries in the world where McDonald's doesn't operate in. The fast food giant closed its last restaurant in the Northern-European country a decade ago, but the last burger they ever sold has been carefully preserved and it still looks surprisingly edible.

On October 31, 2009, Hjortur Smarason had the honor of purchasing the last McDonald's burger sold in Iceland, just before the restaurant's final closing time. He had heard rumors that McDonald's food doesn't decay and preserving the last burger sold in his home country gave him an extra reason to see if the rumors were true or not. He put the burger and the small order of french fries in a plastic bag and left it untouched for three years. Hjortur Smarason lent it to the National Museum of Iceland for a few years, then was moved to the Reykjavík Bus Hostel before being moved to Snotra House, a hostel in Thykkvibaer in southern Iceland, where it is on display like a work of art inside a glass case.

Coffee-painted portraits of Nuria Salcedo

Madrid: Self-taught artist Nuria Salcedo uses coffee to paint portraits of celebrities. While she also uses brown pencils for the most intricate parts of her artworks, her characters are always painted with various tones of coffee. Nuria Salcedo started taking coffee painting seriously about four years ago and admits that her art has come a long way over the years. In the beginning it was all about copying a picture, but today she is more interested in the creative process behind every artwork, merging different ideas and even creating original works. Some of Nuria Salcedo's most impressive works include portraits of Hollywood celebrities like Eddie Redmayne or Jared Leto.

VOICE OF THE READER

Improve Mysuru-Kacheguda train service

Sir,

Extending Kacheguda-Bengaluru train up to Mysuru is a good relief for passengers who want to commute between Hyderabad and Mysuru, without changing the train at Bengaluru. However, in my recent trip to Hyderabad in Mysuru-Kacheguda 'Super Fast' train and back, I have made some observations, which need action from Railways.

Several months back this train was extended up to Mysuru. However, the public address system located within the train was not updated. The announcement starts only from Bengaluru and beyond. Even at several stations en route, the announcement for this train was indicating that this train is from Kacheguda to Bengaluru. This needs updating both, in voice and display in all four languages (English, Kannada, Telugu and Hindi) for the benefit of passengers of both the States and others.

At many stations, no preference was given to this so-called 'super fast' train to give green signal and it was made to wait at outer even at smaller stations, where there is no stop for this train. Many a times this train reaches Kacheguda late by more than 30 minutes. I could not see any TTE examining the tickets in either direction to update the status of RAC ticket holders or to verify the tickets of passengers. In the absence of TTE, a good number of general ticket holders were seen occupying the berths in reserved coaches for short distance travel.

I came to know that the quota for direct passengers between Mysuru and Hyderabad is less. The increasing number of direct flights from Mysuru to Hyderabad indicates the demand for direct connectivity. Hence, one or two more sleeper coaches needs to be added to this train or more quota for Mysuru-bound passengers (in both directions) to meet the rush.

As there are several other daily trains from Bengaluru to Hyderabad, preference should be given to passengers traveling between Mysuru and Hyderabad rather than passengers travelling between Bengaluru and Hyderabad using this train.

India opts out of RCEP, PM Modi says concerns not addressed

New Delhi, Nov.5- India opted out of the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP) on Monday, with PM Narendra Modi putting his foot down and saying the country's concerns were not addressed.

"Our farmers, traders, professionals and industries have stakes in such decisions. Equally important are workers and consumers, who make India a huge market and the third biggest economy in terms of purchasing power parity. When I measure the RCEP agreement with respect to the interests of all Indians, I do not get a positive answer. Therefore, neither the talisman of Gandhiji nor my own conscience permit me to join RCEP," Modi said at the RCEP Summit in Thailand, seven years after negotiations started for formation of what could have been the world's largest trading bloc.

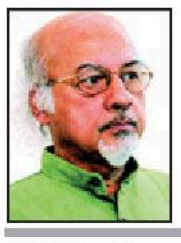
Pleasures of re-writing History



Point of VIEW

T.J.S. George

At last, someone said history should be re-written from India's point of view. Praise be to our Home Ministerji. As he said, Guptavanshik - Veer Skandgupta Vikramaditya is unknown to our children. That is a shame because it was Guptavanshik - Veer Skandgupta Vikramaditya who expanded our border from Junagadh to Afghanistan. Deeply hurt, Amit Shahji asked: "Who is stopping us from re-writing history?"

No one is, fortunately. We can take up the re-writing of our history in earnest and save our children from further nonsense spread by European historians and their Indian imitators such as Romila Thapar. On a priority basis, the task of supervising the re-writing must be entrusted to Smriti Irani, whose experience as Textile Minister will be valuable in weaving new threads of history from an Indian angle.

The possibilities are immense. Take the case of Bhimbetka rock shelters in today's Madhya Pradesh. We all know they were built 11,000 years ago during the neolithic period. What we don't know is that the shelters were intended to protect people from that bandit looter, Mohammed Ghazni. True, Ghazni would be born only 12,000 years later. But our ancestors had the ability to see Islamic dangers far ahead and take precautionary measures. No wonder the Ghazni fellow plundered our Somnath Temple and then ran away.

In 700 BCE, the Upanishads were written. Does anyone know why they don't carry the author's name? The reason is simple: Each Upanishad was written and then re-written so many times that it was impossible to know who wrote what. Similar things happened to Panini, though he was lucky to retain his name. He wrote his grammar textbook in 350 BCE hoping that it would help make Sanskrit the national language. But guys from Lucknow-Varanasi area re-wrote the text, making Hindi the language of grammar and thus the national language of India. Underground guerillas are said to be further re-writing that part of the text to make Malayalam the national language.

The guys from Lucknow-Varanasi area have a mission: Purge Indian history of all foreign influences such as Portuguese and Madrassi. They have found that re-writing is the most effective — and just — way to achieve that end. For example, why should we still say there was a Mughal period in history? The Mughals were not only foreigners, they were Muslims. So we have a duty to erase them from memory. The process has got off to a good start with Allahabad becoming Prayagraj and Mughalsarai turning into Deendayal Upadhyay Nagar. Agra will soon be known as Agravan, city of forests, or Agarwal Nagar, city of the Agarwal Community. The BJP has announced that the moment they form the Government in Telangana, Hyderabad will be renamed Bhagyanagar. Delhi's Aurangzeb Road was converted to A.P.J. Abdul Kalam Road in recognition of a vegetarian known as Kalam Iyer.

A complication in the re-writing saga arose when Tholakappiar, who codified Tamil grammar was accorded the same reverence as given to Panini. The guys from Lucknow-Varanasi area did not know what was Tamil. When they finally did, an extensive re-writing of history was commissioned. Their researchers found that Tamil was linked to Dravidian civilisation, a foreign entity unknown to the early history of India. Ancient India came out of Indus Valley and Harappa, both built by Aryans, an indigenous tribe native to Delhi's Khan Market. Dravidians are outsiders from California, who came to India but were too backward to mix with the indigenous Aryans. For survival, the Dravidians went south and started thinking of ways to punish the arrogant Aryans. They found the answer in iddlis taken with sambar. The Aryans found the combination heavenly but their attempt to make it ended with iddlis turning into lassi and sambar emerging as Veechu Porotha. Eventually the baffled Aryans were forced to concede that Dravidians were part of Aryavarta which was diplomatically better than Aryans being part of Dravida Nadu.

> "The guys from Lucknow-Varanasi area have a mission: Purge Indian history of all foreign influences such as Portuguese and Madrassi. They have found that re-writing is the most effective — and just — way to achieve that end.

The lesson we need to learn is obvious — that the re-writing of history is a continuous process. George Orwell had seen this before Amit Shahji was born. His book 1984 (written in 1948) presented the picture of a polity in which all citizens were manipulated by a single party. The philosophy was: Who controls the present controls the past and the future. In 1948 that sounded like a novelist's paranoia. In 2019, it was found to be Bharat's glory. Re-writing of history is pure patriotism. All that remains is for us to invent ways to ensure that history re-written today is not re-re-written tomorrow.

Rs. 8.20 crore approved to restore historic Madikeri Fort

- Works to begin from Dec. 12, Govt. informs High Court
- Shifting of Government Offices from Fort underway

Madikeri, Nov. 5 (ACP&BCT)- The State Government has given administrative approval to repair the historic Madikeri Fort at a cost of Rs. 8.20 crore. Kodagu Deputy Commissioner Annies Kanmani Joy has submitted a proposal to the Government to restore the landmark structure at an estimated cost of Rs. 8,20,45,674.

All these years, several Government Offices functioned from the Fort premises and despite this, no official took interest in repairing the structure which is in a dilapidated state. Finally, following strictures from the Karnataka High Court, the District Administration acted and has even taken steps to shift the Government Offices to other buildings to help the Archaeological Survey of India (ASI) carry out restoration works.

The ASI is in-charge of the Fort and the Court doors were knocked by J.S. Virupakshaiah, a retired IAS Officer and a resident of Somwarpet who filed a Public Interest Litigation (PIL) contending that the Fort and Palace premises are heritage sites, dating back to more than three centuries. They are neglected and the exterior walls of the Palace are infected with fungus.

The petitioner had prayed before the Court to issue directions to the Government to vacate its Offices and hand over the monuments to the ASI to maintain it. He pleaded before the Court that there was an urgent need to save the historic monuments as incessant rains were causing harm to the structures.

Shifting of Offices

Following the PIL, the Court had asked the Administration to shift the Government Offices by Oct. 31. But there was a delay in the shifting of Government Offices and the petitioner again approached the High Court that ordered issuance of Contempt Notices to the official machinery. Fearing legal action, the officials have started shifting the Office furniture and files. The shifting has, however, not been completed despite exceeding the Oct. 31 deadline.

After the administrative approval from the Government, Revenue Department Principal Secretary N. Manjunath Prasad appeared before the High Court Bench comprising Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Krishnakumar on Oct. 31 and informed the Bench about the Government approval.

Works to start by Dec. 12

Manjunath Prasad told the Court that a Detailed Project Report (DPR) on the end-to-end restoration of the Fort will be prepared by Nov. 17 and tenders will be called within three days. He submitted before the Bench that the restoration works will start from Dec. 12. An affidavit too was filed in this regard.

Advocate Ravindranath Kamath, who represented petitioner Virupakshaiah, told the Court that most Government Offices in Madikeri functioned from the Fort premises since 1920. "As such, the Government has saved more than Rs. 300 crore as rent. The official machinery did not realise this and continued to neglect the Fort without realising the value of the historical structure," he said.

The dilapidated structure of the Fort that needs urgent restoration.

'Too little restoration amount'

Kamath contended that Rs. 8,20,45,674 was too little an amount to restore the Fort. He urged the Bench to fix responsibilities on officials and see to it that the restoration works are carried out in a systematic way.

Responding to the plea, the Court asked the Revenue Department Principal Secretary to furnish the details on which Department will take the responsibility of restoring the Fort and what is the time-line needed for the purpose. The Bench posted the hearing to Nov. 12.

About the Fort

History of the Old Fort dates back to the 17th century AD. It was built by King Mudduraja of Haleri dynasty. Tipu Sultan rebuilt the Fort with stone.

The Palace was built by Lingaraja Wadiyar II in 1812. The Fort was acquired by Dodda Veera Rajendra in 1790 and later came under the rule of British in 1834.

WORD OF THE DAY

Amaranthine

Pronunciation: am-uh-RANTH-un.
Meaning: Of or relating to an amaranth: undying; of a pinkish or rosy red colour.
Origin: Long ago poets conceived of a flower that did not fade and christened it amaranth. The appellation is rooted in the Greek word amarantos, meaning "immortal" or "unfading," and amarantus, the Latin name of a flower (probably Celosia cristata). The word amaranthine emerged as an adjective of the imaginary flower and subsequently of anything possessing its undying quality. Amaranth also names a real plant (genus Amaranthus), an herb that some consider a weed and others grow for its colourful leaves and spikes of flowers.
Example: "At 37-years-old, most players accept they have reached their twilight years, yet goalkeepers can lead an almost amaranthine existence...." — Chris Tait.

THE ODD WORD

Aasvogel

South African vulture.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

A diamond in the rough

Meaning: Someone who is basically good hearted but lacking social graces and respect for the law.
Origin: The phrase is a metaphor clearly referring to the original unpolished state of diamond gemstones, especially those that have the potential to become high quality jewels. It is more commonly expressed in the form 'rough diamond'. The first recorded use in print is in John Fletcher's A Wife for a Month, 1624:
"She is very honest, and will be as hard to cut as a rough diamond." The term is often now used to describe people on the edge of the criminal fraternity who, while they may not commit serious crimes themselves, probably know people who do.
The English comic actor, the late Sid James, typified the type both on and off stage and was typecast in such roles; for example, he played Sir Sidney Ruff-Diamond in the Ealing comedy Carry On Up The Khyber. That was particularly appropriate as it turns out - Sid James worked in a diamond mine in South Africa before becoming an actor.
